Frank Sargent, Herb and Chas. Baldwin had quite a time getting started on their camping trip this noon. With the assistance of a crowd of spectators, every one of whom had suggestions to offer, the packs were lashed onto the horses, but the next serious difficulty was to make the pack horses understand that they were supposed to carry the loads that they were supporting. After camp equipment had been strewn all over Main street and the horses repacked the trio started on their journey into the hills after deer and bear. Merrill Valley the heart of Klamath.

The Moral of Playing Cards.
Playing cards have had their moral side. It may surprise you to know. At the Blenheim club in London, lecturing on the subject of playing cards from the point of view of the collector, Mr. Alfred Whitman said that the most valuable packs were those that taught Biblical history or inculcated moral lessons. In Italy in the eighteenth century it was customary to issue packs of cards with Old Testament scenes engraved upon them. In Germany of the same period playing cards with fables to which morals were attached were customary. French playing cards of the time of Louis XIV. were used to teach geography and history, while in the England of Elizabeth and the Stuarts playing cards were used as political pamphlets. Most valuable were cards issued in France at the time of the French revolution, when figures of Genius, Liberty and Equality took the place of kings, queens and knaves. London Saturday Review.

He Has Two Signatures.
There is one New York business man who is reasonably proof against the forger, as he has two signatures and the forger must first get hold of one of his bank checks to get any action. Seeing the signature on a letter or hotel register would do the forger no good. The bank would not recognize it. "I don't particularly fear the forger," the business man admitted, "but my two signatures make me feel safer just the same. I am surprised that everybody doesn't hit on the same plan. It's very easy after you get the knack of signing your name two separate and distinct ways." New York Globe.

Hard to Do Without Pockets.
"The most annoying thing in navy life for a recruit is the absence of side pockets in the uniform trousers," said a yeoman at the navy recruiting station. "The average man doesn't realize how strong is the custom of thrusting his hands in his trousers pockets until he dons a pair without pockets. I've worn the navy uniform four years now, and I frequently find myself trying to put my hands in my pockets." Kansas City Times.

The Points Were There.
Little Clara's parents often discuss reincarnation, and the small maiden has acquired some of the phraseology. "Mamma," she said one day, "my little must have been a paper of plus in a previous state of existence." "Why do you think so?" asked her mother. "Because I can feel some of them in her toes yet," was the logical reply.

An Iron Tip.
Teacher-Johnny, can you tell me how iron was first discovered?
Johnny-Yes, sir.
"Well, just tell the class what your information is on that point."
"I heard pa say yesterday that they smelt it."
